

Yes, Yes, Yes Lubricant

Oil Based Lubricant

The silky luxurious lubricant is a far cry from the K-Y Jelly that I used some years back, and has some beautiful natural ingredients that perfectly blend to suit the delicate skin of the genital area. Perfect for those experiencing dryness of the skin for whatever reason in this area of the body. The oil based lubricant is not suitable for use with condoms, but perfect for those not requiring barrier contraception or those using the lubricant for other purposes, such as replenishing the genital regions with moisture. The oil based lubricant offers deep levels of moisturisation. Contains Sweet Almond Oil, Shea Butter, Sunflower Seed Oil, Cocoa Seed Butter, Beeswax and Vitamin E.

Water Based Lubricant

Aloe Vera creates a gel like lubricant that surpasses conventional lubricants, and is safe to use with condoms. Immediately soothing and moisturising for the skin, this sublime lubricant leaves you wanting no other. This does not feel like traditional lubricants, where you are avidly aware that you are using a lubricant, but rather it resembles the natural intimate bodily fluids, so you may almost forget you are using a lubricant. What is so great about using Yes, yes, yes lubricants is that they are natural...you are not using chemicals on your intimate areas, where the skin is so delicate. Contains Aloe Vera, Guar Gum, Locust Bean Gum, Flax Extract, Phenoxyethanol, Potassium Sorbate, Xanthan Gum and Citric Acid.

Starter Pack

For those new to Yes, yes, yes, you may opt for a starter pack that contains two small bottles of both the oil and the water based lubricants, two sachets of lubricant, and prefilled applicators, all lovingly packaged in a beautiful blue organza bag, so perfect for travel also! Another notable benefit from Yes, yes, yes lubricants is the uncanny way the blending of the two lubricants seems to create an exact match of the bodily fluids in the intimate area. Above and beyond use for intimacy of making love, is the fact that the ingredients are pure, natural, and perfect for moisturising the sensitive intimate area. The results are beautifully comfortably moisturised intimate areas. So many people use body lotions, creams, oils and butters, but many of these products simply are not designed for the intimate areas, and quite frankly do not work “down there”. They may cause irritation, or are just not compatible for the type of skin of the intimates. Yes, yes, yes, really does work “down there” providing a cooling effect from the water based lubricant, replenishing moisture levels; and providing a soothing, retexturing of the skin through the oil based lubricant.

The packaging is modern, fun and chic, that will make you proud to be using Yes, yes, yes products. I like the pale green packaging with modern graphics, and of course the name – Yes, yes, yes. The tubes are all designed to stand upright on your bedside table, and easy to dispense the product. Once you have tried the product range, you will never want to use regular lubricants. In hospitals they use all kinds of chemically laden jelly’s...I recommend you take your own – the Yes, yes yes, lubricants.
