

JaneyLeeGrace

Natural Intimate Lubricants from Yes

View video >

Have you ever wondered why facilitating something as wonderfully natural as sex has to involve so many chemicals? Well, now it doesn't.

Yes® lubricants are formulated from plant extracts to give the most natural feeling lubrication possible. Excellent natural ingredients and the reassurance of organic certification from the Soil Association (Europe's leading certification body), ensures you don't have to worry about synthetic additives, chemicals or animal testing.

The founders of the company Susi Lennox and Sarah Brooks both worked with Pfizer when Viagra was launched, and they became aware of need for effective products in the intimacy arena. They found there was a gap in the market for a pure and natural personal lubricant.

They set out to 'change the world from the inside' by creating a new concept: A certified organic, plant-based natural range of intimacy products"

Somewhere between 50-80% of menopausal women experience vaginal dryness caused by declining oestrogen levels.

Some cancer treatments or having a hysterectomy creates the same effect, as can pregnancy, breast-feeding, taking anti depressants, the Pill or anti histamines or even suffering from stress.

This means that most women have a need for lubricants or vaginal moisturizers at some stage in their lives.

All the Yes products are plant based natural ingredients and certified organic and are free from hidden synthetic chemicals cruelty free and feel good on the skin. They also do the world's first and only certified rganic fertility friendly lubricant system, for use at the time of ovulation which enables couples, trying to conceive, to use lubricants that are pH and osmolality matched to semen during ovulation and matched to typical vaginal pH after ovulation.

You can find out more about which product is right for you at www.yesyesyes.org